

Stuart Miner
President and Chief Operating Officer

Mr. Miner oversees and manages the organization, development and implementation of the company's land redevelopment projects from inception to project completion. Prior to EFG, he was a co-founder of The LandBank Group, Inc., one of the nation's first Brownfield acquisition and redevelopment firms. He has more than 30 years of experience in the Brownfield and environmental consulting businesses, with unique expertise in structuring brownfield transactions to isolate liability and manage risk. While in the environmental consulting industry, Mr. Miner played a primary role in the development of the earliest environmental insurance products including the engineering analysis for the first environmental liability insurance policy, and the development of technical underwriting standards for the first remediation stop loss insurance policy in support of a Brownfield transaction.

Mr. Miner holds a Master's degree in Urban and Regional Planning from George Washington University. He has authored multiple professional papers and articles addressing the structuring and execution of brownfield real estate transactions and is a frequent presenter at national Brownfield seminars and conferences. Mr. Miner is a full member of the Urban Land Institute, a member of ULI's Public Private Partnership product council and former member of the Executive Committee of the Colorado District Council of ULI. He is also Vice Chairman of the Board of Directors of Volunteers for Outdoor Colorado, a state-wide environmental stewardship organization.
